

SOMEWHAT HISTORICAL.

Mr. Summerfield, writing in his favorite organ, remarks that if he had the history of the APPEAL editor since he was fourteen years of age he could paint him blacker than words could tell.

Some weeks ago Mr. Summerfield was remarking about town that he proposed to hunt the APPEAL editor's back record and show him up. Probably his hunt was unsatisfactory. This might possibly have been because he did not know where the said editor had lived since he was fourteen.

In order to assist him in his investigations we will give a brief resume of our various places of residence since our advent into the United States of America.

Was born in Branford, Conn., in 1850.

Moved to Ansonia with parents at age of 4.

Went to school in Newark, New Jersey, until about 18; for further particulars enquire of Thomas Grey, tutor of Grace Church School.

Went to Racine College, Racine, Wis. A general record of the writer's gait at that institution can be secured of Rev. E. B. Spaulding, now to be found at Trinity School, Market street, San Francisco. Went from there to Brownville, Nebraska, and wrote locale for the Advertiser.

Address Hon. O. P. Mason, ex-Chief Justice of the State, at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Have worked on the Nebraska City News, Omaha Herald Chicago Times, and St. Louis Republican.

General line of conduct can be secured by addressing any of these offices.

Came to this coast about twenty years ago and since that time have been connected with the S. F. Chronicle and Examiner, Virginia City Chronicle and Morning Appeal.

With this data to go on, a smart lawyer like Mr. Summerfield ought to be able to get a fair idea of a man's back record with comparatively little trouble or expense. Further particulars can be had at this office, and all the assistance in our power will be given the gentleman or any other man to facilitate the search for shady spots on our character.

Will Mr. Summerfield be kind enough to furnish us similar data of his life in Austin and elsewhere.

NOT DEFUNCT.

The assertion by the District Attorney that the recent Grand Jury is defunct, conveys a wrong impression. The recent Grand Jury is about as live a set of men as were ever gathered in Ormsby county.

The District Attorney merely wishes that that honorable body was defunct, and also that it was never alive.

If the District Attorney has evidence, as he alleges he has, of any one aiding an indicted man to escape arrest, it is his duty to bring it before the Grand Jury—if it is not defunct—or the next one he knows of that is not defunct.

Hasn't the Proper Instincts.

Several days the Tribune charged the Associated Press agent of this city with garbling a dispatch to San Francisco. Arthur Raycraft the operator who sent the dispatch told the Tribune editor that he sent the dispatch correctly from the manuscript filed by the agent and that it was garbled in San Francisco. The Tribune however has not seen fit to do the Associated Press Agent, who is connected with the APPEAL, the justice to apologise for his misstatement.

It would astonish everybody however to see him do anything that indicated that he was a gentleman.

Flower's victory in New York cost him more than Tilden's defeat when he ran for President.

A STORE FOR THE COAST.

The store of Weinstock, Lubin, & Co. should not be thought of merely as a Sacramento store. It is a store for the whole Pacific Coast. Situated in its center, quickly and easily reached from everywhere, it has strong natural advantages. Then, too, the expenses of conducting business in Sacramento are less than in many cities; the three hundred or more employees live largely in their own homes, and leading natural lives, render service of the best sort. People see that in the healthful enthusiasm and interest with which the wants of customers are attended to.

The beautiful building just erected in Sacramento, with its great stock of merchandise, shows that the business belongs to a region, not a locality. The large illustrated catalogue issued Spring and Autumn describes everything so fully, that distant buyers shop as advantageously as if present at the counters. The book is sent free to any address, and tens of thousands of people from Canada to Mexico are using it regularly in the purchase of wearing apparel of all kinds, household supplies, etc.
